The Top 15

Most Influential People at BYU

Every organization has its official power structure — and its unofficial power structure. The Universe staff set out to find out the latter at BYU.

Our survey yielded interesting results which can be attributed to one or both of the following two factors:

1. The unofficial power structure closely matches the official structure

2. People at BYU don't know what the power structure is and simply dropped the best-known names.

Another interesting result was the way the survey was interpreted; we intentionally used the word "influential" to see how respondents reacted.

Approximately 200 people were surveyed, in the three categories shown to the right. In compiling the composite poll above, the faculty and student categories were weighted twice, while the D.U. staff was weighted once.

Of course, we claim no statistical significance to this poll. In fact, the wide variety of answers and the open nature of the question would probably make a statistics professor laugh. Out loud.

But it did give us a pretty good idea of what people thought.

And we wanted to give everyone a little look at some of the "most influential" people at BYU. So we chose these (somewhat lighthearted) profiles of people who make BYU tick — even if it's only an unofficial list.

1. Rex Lee

Position: University president
Years at BYU: 5
Favorite Thanksgiving food: The dressing
Favorite fiction book: James Michener novels
Favorite BYU sport: Football & basketball
His vote for #1: Janet Calder (his secretary)

P.T. Barnum was right. You can fool some of the people all of the time. At least that was the reaction of President Rex E. Lee when he learned he had been chosen the most influential person at BYU.

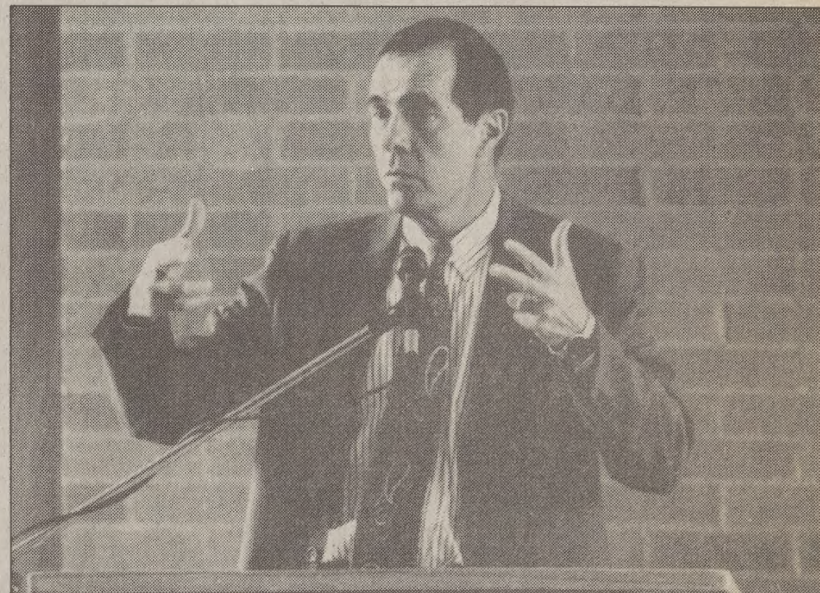

"If you really want to get down to who really wields power around here," President Lee said, "it's Janet Calder."

Calder is President Lee's secretary/gatekeeper; President Lee's son, Mike, also nominated Calder.

President Lee EMDNMØhas had a good deal of power throughout his professional career. After graduating from BYU and getting his law degree at Chicago, he clerked for former Supreme Court Justice Byron White.

Having argued several dozen cases before the Supreme Court himself, President Lee is well-known nationally; part of that notoriety stems from his stint as U.S. Solicitor General.

Since coming to BYU five years ago, President Lee has worked to prepare the school for the next century. His moves to expedite the graduation of BYU students while increasing the quality of their education should end up being his legacy. His love for the school's sports teams will also be remembered — his face was as long and drained of emotion as that of LaVell Edwards after the Cougar football team lost to Utah Nov. 20.

President Lee also frequently takes in men's basketball games and was recently present at a women's volleyball match. Does he have a favorite? "I don't know that I could choose between football and basketball," he says.

BYU Provost Bruce Hafen ranked second in the "influential people" poll.

If you're unsure exactly what a provost is, Webster's New World Dictionary defines it as the following:

1. the chief magistrate of a Scottish burgh
2. a jailer
3. the head of a cathedral chapter
4. in certain American universities, an administrative official dealing chiefly with faculty, curriculum, etc.

Hafen apparently fits the last definition, and has been provost since 1989.

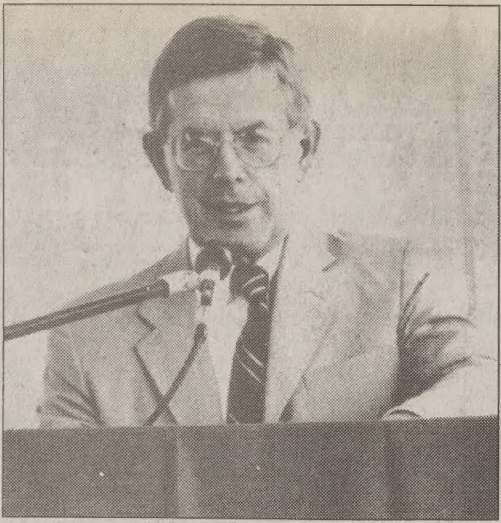

He graduated from BYU with a B.A. and went to law school at the University of Utah.

Hafen began working at BYU in 1971 as an assistant to the president. He also taught constitutional, family and education law at BYU's law school.

From 1978 to 1985 he was the president of Rick College. In 1985 he became the dean of BYU's law school until his appointment as provost.

"Each BYU student" is his pick for the number one most influential person at BYU.

About making the Top 15, Hafen said, "It must have been a slow news day."

3. LaVell Edwards

Position: Head football coach
Years at BYU: 31
Favorite Thanksgiving food: Stuffing
Favorite fiction book: "Lonesome Dove"
Favorite BYU sport: Need we ask?
His vote for #1: Rex Lee

Coach LaVell Edwards is often thought of as having significant influence at BYU, as evidenced by his high showing in the polls.

Edwards still wasn't convinced, though. "I'm a little surprised. I never thought of myself as being in that category."

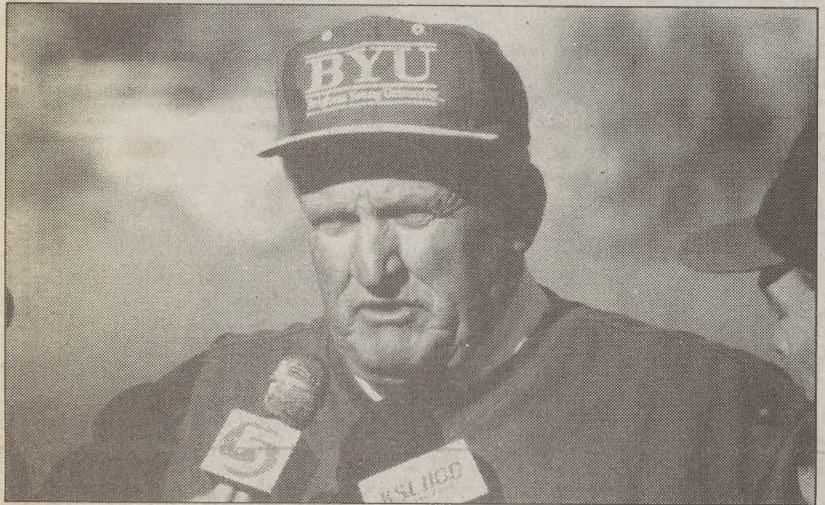

Edwards recently got one of his favorite holiday gifts: a trip to the Holiday Bowl. With the win over UTEP Saturday, his Cougars qualified for the game despite a 6-5 record, BYU's worst since 1975.

Perhaps best known for his perpetual frown, Edwards does have a lighter side to his personality. Those who know him well testify to that.

When asked about his favorite Thanksgiving food, it was suggested he might answer "UTEP." He chuckled and declined, instead offering "stuffing" as his answer.

Does his wife make good stuffing?

"No, she buys good stuffing. That Stove Top stuff is really good."

Years at BYU: 14
Favorite Thanksgiving food: Turkey
Favorite fiction book: "The Velveteen Rabbit"
Favorite BYU sport: Whatever is being played
Her vote for #1: The student

As dean of student life, Maren Mouritsen supervises Student Leadership Development and BYUSA. In that capacity, she has become a friend to many, many students. She takes her responsibilities seriously — and on a very individual basis. In fact, she has gained quite a bit of notoriety for her personal touch with students and staff. When asked which BYU sport she liked most, Mouritsen replied, "Whichever one is being played at the moment — especially if I know the students well who are playing. In spite of the respect she has garnered, her response to being named among the Top 15 was simple: "I'm shocked!"

greatest opportunity to influence the school in the broadest context. As for the presence of only two women on the list, she said there should be more. She said there are several women at BYU whose input is highly valued but who have low profiles. Smoot said the best part of her job is getting to work with "exceptionally talented and compassionate people." She said the hardest part of her job is explaining complex issues to media representatives that always want simple answers.

29 votes for the University's Board of Trustees, which includes the First Presidency, several of the Twelve and other auxiliary officers (listed to the right), were tallied as one category — regardless of whether the votes were for an individual or the board as a whole. As a private university, BYU operates under the direction of its board and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Major decisions, such as those to construct new buildings, or major policy changes are approved by the board. They also give counsel and direction to the University's administration, as well as offering spiritual support to students by providing firesides and devotions. Elder L. Tom Perry, of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, is perhaps the most frequent spectator at Cougar football and basketball games — although President Thomas S. Monson of the First Presidency was seen wearing a blue and white beanie cap last season in the Marriott Center.

BYU SA FOR ALL OF US

Rana Lehr/Daily Universe

The Universe staff, all dressed and ready for the annual paintball war with the U. of U. Chronicle staff, got stood up this year. Unfortunately for BYU, the U. football team did show up.

The Daily Universe was voted the seventh most influential "person" at BYU. Brian Kagel, editor-in-chief, speaks for the entire staff. As we staffers know, his opinion is our opinion.

"It's kind of funny that we made the list mostly because we voted ourselves in," Kagel said. "It seems to indicate that we feel that we may have more influence than we actually do. Recent market surveys have shown that the Universe is read by 90 percent of the student body and faculty in a given week. So we hope that somewhere in there we do have an influence and that it is a positive one."

"The position of editor-in-chief is influential because a lot of major editorial decisions that need to be made come through me," he said. "If I don't make the right decision along with the other editors, we could end up hurting others through erroneous coverage or end up misinforming our public," Kagel said.

One of the staff's recent tricks was to superimpose the faces of top U. of U. football players on bodies of BYU cheerleaders for a local TV broadcast.

The Daily Universe staff consists of approximately 50 students in a reporting class, 25 students in an editing class, and 28 paid staff members that include undergraduate majors in various fields.

Each semester a new editor is selected by permanent faculty advisors and key communications department officials. Undergraduate positions are then chosen by the editor. 8. Mike Lee

Position: BYUSA president
Years at BYU: 3
Favorite Thanksgiving food: Turkey sushi
Favorite fiction book: "Lord of the Flies"
Favorite BYU sport: Football
His vote for #1: Janet Calder (dad's secretary)

Lee said he was surprised by his nomination among BYU's 15 most influential people, but added that he can see how any student leader could be perceived as influential. "The administration listens to its student leaders here. They really care what students think," Lee said.

The road to the top of BYU's influence hierarchy has not been an easy one for Lee. One of his past menial jobs was bathroom monitor during a Washington, D.C. internship (he was responsible for getting senators out of the restrooms and on the floor to vote).

Lee's future plans include the LSAT in December, graduation in August and law school (Chicago is his first choice) in the fall. To the casual observer it looks like Mike is on his way to becoming a carbon copy of his father, President Rex E. Lee.

Matt Franck/Daily Universe

Mike doesn't agree: "No, I don't want to be just like my dad. Sure, I share similar interests with him, but I think it's a bad idea to mimic another's career. I just want to be a good attorney."

Lee said he thinks Janet Calder, President Lee's secretary, is BYU's most influential person. "She wields a lot of power. Not only is she an important gatekeeper, but she can speak in his (Pres. Lee's) name," he said.

9. Dee Anderson

Position: Administrative VP
Years at BYU: 10
Favorite Thanksgiving food: Mincemeat pie
Favorite authors: James Michener, Ayn Rand, J.R.R. Tolkien
His vote for #1: Rex Lee

For BYU Administrative Vice President Dee Anderson, being named as one of the most influential people on campus is hard to swallow.

As the individual who oversees all the facilities, finances and Student Auxiliary Services at the University, Anderson insists he is in a role of merely supporting those who are really making contributions.

"The way I see things, if my picture is in the paper, I'm doing something wrong," he said.

Anderson has been on campus for ten years and plans to retire next August.

Matt Franck/Daily Universe

10. Todd Britsch

Position: Academic VP/Assoc. provost
Years at BYU: 27
Favorite Thanksgiving food: Turkey, potatoes, gravy
Favorite authors: Goethe, Shakespeare, James E. Faust
Favorite BYU sport: Football
His vote for #1: Students and Rex Lee

Todd Britsch said students (and President Rex E. Lee) would rank as the most influential people at BYU if he was voting. As No. 10, he is also among the most influential.

Britsch graduated from BYU in 1962 with a bachelor's in political science, then spent a year in Germany attending the University of Hamburg. When he returned to the states, he attended school at Florida State University. There he earned a master's in comparative literature and a doctorate in humanities.

Although he has been in his present job for 1-1/2 years, Britsch has been at BYU for a total of 27 years. As academic vice president and associate provost, Britsch deals most often with requests for resources and program and personnel matters. His favorite thing about his present job is the view of Mount Timpanogos from his office in the administration building.

When Britsch is not working, he enjoys music, spectator sports, playing racquetball, visiting museums and travelling with his wife, Dorothy.

UNIVERSITY FORUM ASSEMBLY

Tuesday, November 30, 11 A.M., Marriott Center

JOHN K. ROTH

Russell K. Pitzer Professor of Philosophy at Claremont McKenna College.

"Different Voices: Women and the Holocaust"

Professor Roth will explore how Nazi Germany targeted Jewish women during the Holocaust, a part of the Holocaust's history that has not yet received the attention it deserves. The forum address will show how the Nazis' racist anti-Semitism made the destruction of Jewish women especially important for the aims of the Third Reich.

The lecture is based on Professor Roth's book by the same title, which commemorates the sufferings and courage of Jewish women during the darkest years of the twentieth century. Nobel laureate and preeminent Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel said: "This moving and informative anthology helps us grasp for the first time what Jewish women endured, both as Jews and as women."

Named 1988 National Professor of the Year by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education and also by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, John K. Roth currently chairs the Department of Philosophy, in which he is a professor, at Claremont McKenna College in Claremont, California. He holds a PhD in philosophy from Yale University and has received much recognition and many honors, including a Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa, from Indiana University. A recognized expert in both American studies and Holocaust studies, Dr. Roth has authored, co-authored, or edited 21 books and published more than 200 articles and reviews.

[There will be a question-and-answer session following the forum from 12 noon to 1 p.m. in the ELWC Varsity Theatre.]

Josh Luke, an enterprising Universe sports writer who was assigned to survey students for this project, proved his influence by garnering enough votes to make himself No. 6 on the "Most Influential People at BYU" list — including a handful of first-place votes. Perhaps Luke is best known for his recent acquisition of three pairs of Air Max sneakers — given to him by the Mailman himself. It seems that Luke had pity on Josh in the "Most Influential People at BYU" game and gave him the shoes. Luke refused to comment on whether the shoes helped him get votes.

When asked what his favorite fiction book was, Gholdston replied, "I never read fiction or watch television or eat foods high in unsaturated fats." The only comment Gholdston had about being voted as an influential person at BYU was, "Sounds!"

George D. Durrant, an assistant professor in the BYU Religious Education Department, was also named among the Top 15.

"When I learned that I was named one of the most influential people on campus I was shocked and deeply honored," Durrant said. "I felt like maybe I could be considered as one of the friendliest people on campus but not one of the most influential."

He said BYU is an academic place and he is not necessarily academic.

"I see some of my colleagues and I long to have the influence they have because of their accomplishments," he said.

Durrant is well-known for his talent of remembering everybody's names. He said the best thing about teaching at BYU is that he gets "a whole flock of new friends every semester who are the most wonderful people in the world."

He also said that when he dies he hopes it will be in the middle of the Durrant teaches Sharing the Gospel and Introduction to LDS Family History. He said he loves teaching something he loves so much and cares so deeply about. "I love being free to talk about being good," he said.

Durrant is excited about the upcoming holidays because he said that Christmas is the best time of the year.

"It's fun to do it all, the Christmas trees, cards and every festivity and still not forget the real star, Jesus Christ," he said.

Mark Durrant, George's son, plays basketball for BYU. The elder Durrant said he goes to all the home games. He doesn't go to the away games, especially at the University of Utah, because he gets too mad.

Durrant has been married for 37 years to his wife, Marilyn, who has helped him tremendously, he said. "All the good things that have happened in my life are because of her."

BYU drills UTEP 47-16, receives Holiday Bowl bid

BY PAT POYFAIR
Assistant Sports Editor

They might be only a 6-5 team that has lost five of their last seven games, but they overcame the odds and are going to the Holiday Bowl.

BYU's 47-16 shellacking of UTEP wasn't enough to get to the Holiday Bowl alone. Overcoming a disappointing finish to a season overshadowed by expectations wasn't enough either.

Instead it took Marshall Faulk and Darnay Scott and David Lowery of the San Diego State Aztecs to blow four straight opportunities to score a touchdown from the five yard line in the final seconds of their home game against the Wyoming Cowboys to insure the Cougars a berth in the WAC's most coveted bowl.

"I feel very good about what happened (Saturday) night," Edwards said. "It was our No. 1 goal to win the championship and go to the Holiday Bowl. We took a couple of detours along the way but we are happy with where we are going."

BYU's win over the Miners was definitely a step in the right direction. Not only did the Cougars dominate, but they proved that they could put a balanced game together.

BYU's offense netted 491 yards, yet, only 288 of them came in the air. Kalin Hall, Hema Heimuli, Steve Christensen and John Walsh accounted for 203 rushing yards and five rushing touchdowns.

The defense also continued to rise from the ashes of the Cougars' four-game losing streak. The Cougars had two sacks, allowed only 96 passing yards and 147 net rushing yards.

"We wanted to go out and impress some bowls," said BYU quarterback John Walsh. "It is going to be a close call to see who goes where, so we wanted to win decisively."

The Cougars did just that. Not only was it their most lopsided victory of the season, but the Cougars played the way their fans wanted them to.

Despite the 33 degree temperature at kickoff, Walsh still managed to direct his corps of wide receivers effectively downfield twice in the opening quarter, but called his own number and calmly ran the ball in from 5 yards out to put BYU on top 10-0. Walsh, despite being sacked once, still managed to rush for positive yardage.

The Cougars seemed to step up their intensity in the second quarter and in the process, landed themselves in highlight films around the nation.

The first game when Walsh handed a pass off to Kalin Hall and then threw a block against UTEP's Pookie Floyd, a 6-foot-4-inch, 245-pound linebacker, to clear a hole for Hall to pick up 9 yards.

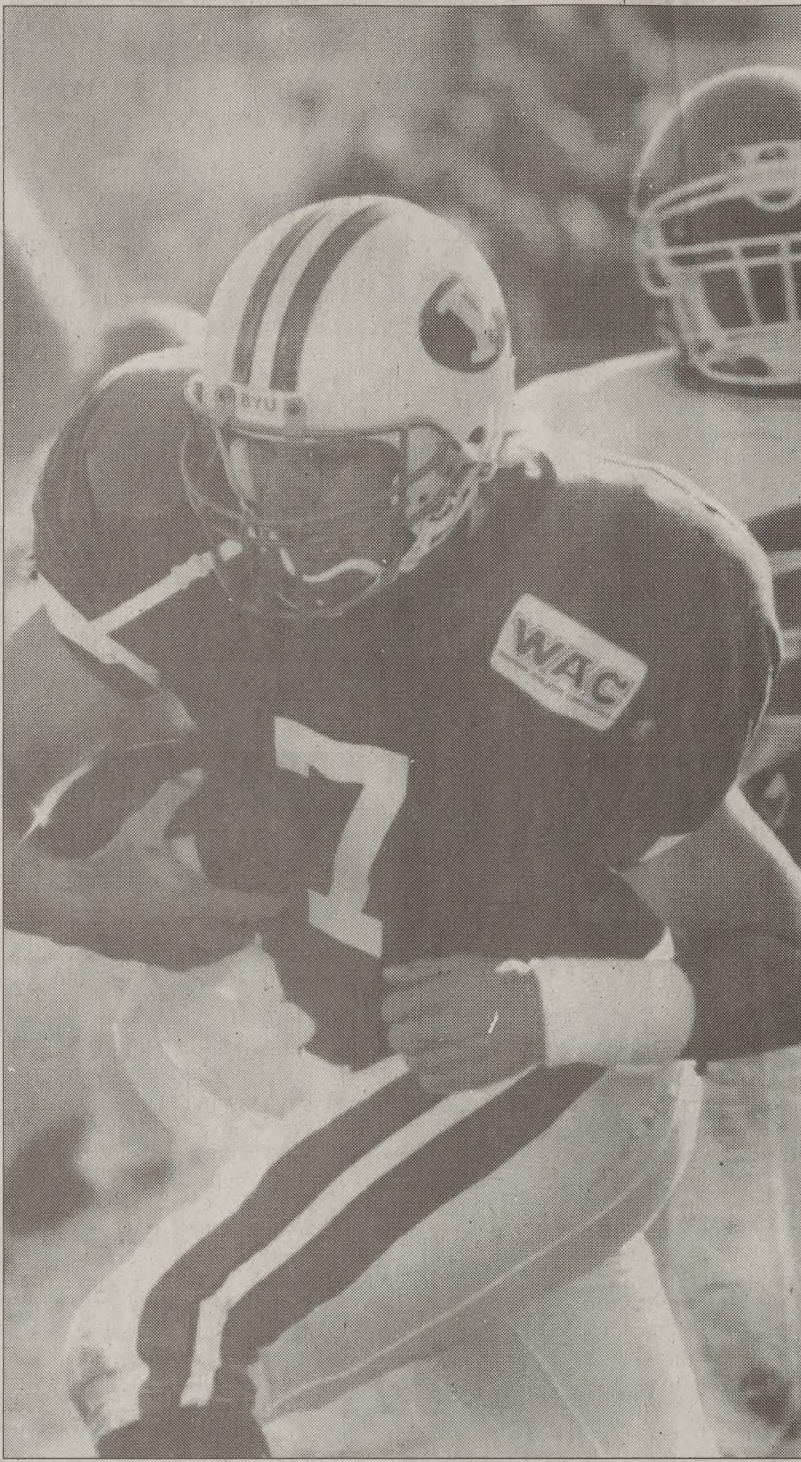

"The handoff was to Kalin, and unfortunately I was there, so I threw the block," Walsh said. "He probably thought (6-7, 290-pound offensive lineman) Mike Empey hit him or something."

On the Cougars next possession, Walsh hit tight end Chad Lewis, who then promptly hurdled a UTEP opponent before being pushed out of bounds at the 16-yard line. Two plays later, BYU was up 17-3.

JOHN "THE SCRAMBLER" WALSH: BYU quarterback John Walsh rushes into the end zone for the Cougars' first TD against UTEP. Next up for BYU: a Dec. 30 date in the Holiday Bowl in San Diego.

Two UTEP possessions later, the Miners were ready to punt from their 41 yard line, when wide receiver and special teams guru Tim Nowatzke raced in and blocked the kick that was downed on UTEP's 29 yard line.

Three plays and thirteen seconds later, Walsh found Eric Drage in the end zone with 5 seconds left to play in the second half, and BYU never looked back after that.

"We felt very good about our game today and winning a championship," Edwards said. "It's been remarkable that no matter how frustrating and tough it has been, our players came back every week in practice and got themselves ready to play."

"A month or so from now I told the players they are not going to remember about they games they lost, just the championship we won. The bottom line is that we are the champions."

Y volleyball team loses to UCLA, heads to regionals

By AUDRA SORENSEN
Universe Sports Writer

The women's volleyball team lost a close match against No. 1 UCLA Friday but the Cougars look forward to a rematch at the NCAA finals.

The regional tournament schedule was released Sunday night and coach Elaine Michaelis said BYU is seeded fifth at regionals and will play in the West region.

The team had hoped to play in another region but Michaelis said Santa Barbara was seeded ahead of the Cougars. Santa Barbara will be sent to the East region.

BYU has a bye Wednesday night and plays its first tournament match Saturday night in Provo against the winner of the University of San Diego-Washington St. match.

UCLA took the Pacific Bankers Classic, but only after a grueling two hour battle the first night against the Cougars who took the Bruins to five games 10-15, 15-8, 16-14, 6-15, 16-18.

The tournament featured UCLA, BYU, No. 11 Pacific and No. 17 Notre Dame.

"We could have won it," said senior middle blocker Michele Fellows. "We had three match points but we just couldn't rally. I know we could beat them next time we play."

"It went well for us," Michaelis said. "We played about as good as you can play against UCLA and still get beat. We just played very decisively against Notre Dame."

Saturday night the spikers beat Notre Dame (27-7, 5-0 MCC) in three games 15-5, 15-6, 15-4.

Last week, The WAC named Fellows Player of the Year. She was named on the All-WAC first team along with junior setter Charlene Fiaputa and senior outside hitter Tumua Matu'u.

Fellows, an All-American, has led the team with her .375 average hitting 3.71 average kills and 1.08 blocks per game.

"It could have gone to anyone," Fellows said. "I couldn't do it with out Char and the rest of the team. It's a team award really."

Senior middle blocker Carol Rawson made the All-WAC second team, her first time ever receiving the honor.

Before Friday's loss, the Cougars held the nation's longest winning streak winning 25 straight matches, 29 WAC matches and 22 home matches. The Cougars are 26-2 overall and finished undefeated in the WAC.

Friday's match had a competitive statistics in hitting efficiency and kills with he Bruins hitting .239 compared to the Cougars .234. They also made 79 kills compared to the Cougars 77 kills. They out-blocked the team 20 to 12.5.

"When you play a really good volleyball and it's a five-game match it can do either way," junior outside hitter Marianne Clark said.

Clark said if the Cougars face the Bruins again the team will know what to expect.

"We have the jitters out there, but it won't be so tentative," Clark said.

UCLA (28-1, 17-1 Pac-10) finished second last year in the NCAA tournament and has been at the top of the polls all season. The Bruins finished with an average of .232 as a team and this year's opponents at .155. The Bruins are led by senior setter Julie Brinkman with 13.3 assists per game and setter Annett Buckner (4.6 kills per game) and Alyson Randick (.300 hitting percentage).

BYU women's softball team completes preseason schedule

By VALERIE BIRD
Universe Sports Writer

BYU's women's softball team is looking forward to the upcoming season after finishing their preseason with a 6-2 record.

Because of injuries to different players, it was hard for everyone to play their normal positions, but the team still looked good, said junior first baseman Jill Combe.

The season begins in February, but tryouts will be in mid-January at the Helaman softball fields.

The softball team is an extramural/club team because there is a lack of outside support from the faculty, students and administration, said coach Lynette Bird, a junior from Sacramento, Calif., in her second year as head coach of the softball team.

"We are just as good as the Division I schools, but can't compete with them because we're not sanctioned," Bird said. "Hopefully we'll become a sanctioned Division I varsity sport in the future."

"We are a good team, but it is frustrating not being sanctioned," said sophomore pitcher Renee Ward. "We could be a NCAA ball club because when we play the Division I teams, we stay with them."

"Defensively the team is solid, but we need to develop better hitting skills," Bird said.

Combe feels they don't play enough games, but has fun in the games the team does play.

She enjoys coaching and finds it interesting to be in this situation at her age. "The hardest thing is helping players reach their full potential and getting them respond to me," she said.

Seminoles could meet Nebraska in bowl

The Associated Press

Polls and bowls almost overshadowed two great games on the final big week-end of college football.

While the focus was on the national championship, No. 1 Florida State and No. 13 Penn State closed their regular seasons with thrilling victories Saturday.

Florida State quarterback Charlie Ward probably clinched the Heisman Trophy, throwing for 446 yards and four touchdowns as the Seminoles beat No. 9 Florida 33-21 at Gainesville.

The victory set up a probable Orange Bowl showdown between Florida State (11-1) and No. 2 Nebraska (11-0).

If Florida beats Alabama in the Southeastern Championship game next Saturday, the Gators (9-2) will go to the Sugar Bowl against No. 5 Notre Dame. If the Gators lose to Alabama, they'll probably play North Carolina in the Gator Bowl.

Penn State trailed No. 25 Michigan State 37-17 late in the third quarter at East Lansing before rallying to beat the Spartans 38-37. The winning score came on a 48-yard pass from Kerry Collins to Bobby Engram with just over 11 minutes remaining.

Penn State (9-2) is headed for a Citrus Bowl matchup against No. 6 Tennessee (9-1-1) if No. 10 Wisconsin beats Michigan State in Tokyo next week. If Wisconsin loses, the Badgers would go to the Citrus and Penn State would play BYU in the Holiday Bowl.

A Wisconsin victory would send the Badgers to the Rose Bowl against No. 14 UCLA. A Badgers' loss would put Ohio State in the Rose Bowl.

Other likely bowl matchups: Arizona-Miami (Fiesta); Boston College-Virginia (Carquest); Michigan-North Carolina State (Hall of Fame); Clemson-Kentucky (Peach); Virginia Tech-Indiana (Independence); Texas Tech vs. Colorado or Oklahoma (Hancock); Louisville-Michigan State (Liberty); Kansas State-Utah (Copper); Oklahoma or Colorado vs. Fresno State (Aloha); Utah State-Ball State (Las Vegas); Southern Cal-Wyoming (Freedom); and Iowa-California (Alamo).

Layden rips Sonics' coach, gets revenge

Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — It took six months, but Utah Jazz president Frank Layden got revenge for what he perceived to be shabby treatment by Seattle coach George Karl last spring.

Layden's anger was sparked by an incident he said occurred before Game 4 of the first-round playoffs between the Jazz and the Seattle SuperSonics.

He said he walked past the Seattle locker room in the Delta Center and saw Karl and Sonic president Bob Whitsitt. Layden said he stopped to "congratulate them on a great season."

Hours later, the Sonics had avoided elimination by winning the game. They eventually won the series.

Karl told the media he had used Layden's "congratulations" to motivate his players. He told them the Jazz were looking ahead.

"It was a cheap shot," Layden says now. "I tried to be nice. I was sincere. Then, the next thing I know, it's in the paper that I didn't show them any respect and he used it to motivate his team. I said to myself, 'OK, if that's how they're going to play, fine. I'll just bide my time.'"

Last week, Layden was a guest on a San Francisco radio show. The listeners wanted to know his thoughts on the Western Conference race.

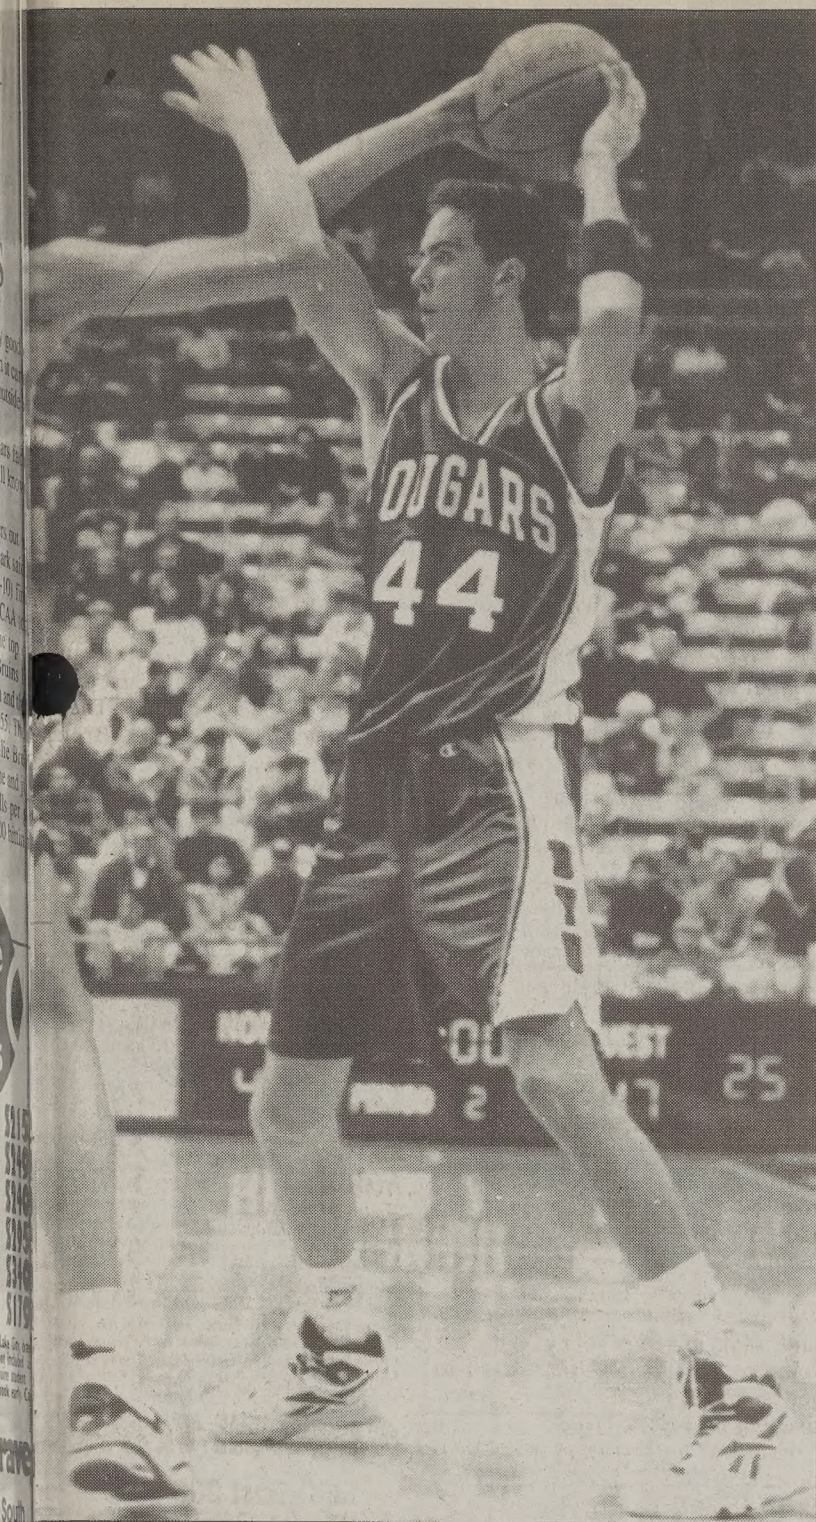

"I told them Seattle had the best team in the league," Layden said. "I told them — top to bottom — they had the best material. I said, 'In fact, if they have any weaknesses at all, it's the coach.'"

Layden's comments reached Seattle, and he received a phone call from Whitsitt.

"I held the phone off to the side and said, 'Gotcha,' " Layden said. "He said, 'What's going on?' I said, 'Let me tell you what's going on.'"

Layden said he told Whitsitt that "his coach acted unprofessionally and irresponsibly. And I told him I wanted to give (Karl) a little lesson in humility."

"He said, 'Frank, I didn't think you were that kind of guy.' And I said, 'I'm not that kind of guy. In fact, I'm the kind of guy who stops and congratulates the other team on a great season.' Then this guy stabs me in the back," Layden said.

Cougars drop opener to ASU, meet Athletes in Action tonight

By TIM LOTT
Universe Sports Writer

A slow start kept the BYU men's basketball team from capturing its win of the regular season, losing Arizona State 106-95.

The Sun Devils, who went into Saturday's game with only nine players, dominated the first half, outscoring the Cougars 61-40.

Second-half play was a different story, as BYU outscored the Sun Devils 55-45.

Game-total 27 turnovers plagued the Cougars as they faced Arizona State's pressure defense.

The Sun Devils set a PAC-10 record last year by forcing 23.4 turnovers per game, while surrendering only 14.6 per game.

"I saw some things about this team I'm very pleased with," coach Roger Reid told the Deseret News Saturday. "We knew it was going to be a very tough opener and in the first half they took us out of our offense. But I like the character of our team coming back."

Shane Knight led the Cougars in scoring with 19 points, including five three-pointers. Mark Durrant followed with 14 points. Russell Larson pulled down 12 rebounds and chipped in 12 points.

Other double-digit scorers included Kurt Christensen and Craig Wilcox with 11 points each and Randy Reid with ten.

The Cougars will face Athletes in Action tonight in an exhibition game at 5:30 in the Marriott Center.

Women go 1-1 in weekend tourney

By TIM LOTT
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU women's basketball team was up short against Oregon State Friday, as the Cougars suffered a 68 loss to the Beavers at the La Faucet/St. Mary's Tip-off Clinic in Moraga, Calif.

BYU came back Saturday to beat State Northridge 102-51, led by Kristi Kidd's 20 points.

Against Oregon State, the Beavers led the second half with a 12-point lead and never looked back.

Debbie Dimond lead the team with 23 points (17 in the first half) and six rebounds, leaving the rest of the team with single-digit stats.

Behka Stafford and Camille Woodbury posted eight points, while Tiani Hatch finished with six.

The Cougars will be back on the road again this weekend at the Idaho/Safeco-University Inn Classic in Moscow, Idaho. They will face Nebraska on Friday in the four-team tournament which also includes University of Idaho and Pacific.

Utah law group set to battle private adjusters

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — A lawyers' organization is backing proposed legislation to curtail the activities of private insurance adjusters who act as intermediaries between claimants and insurance companies.

The Utah Trial Lawyers Association contends some private adjusters stray into legal work to the detriment of their clients. Adjusters counter that they have knowledge of the insurance industry that many attorneys don't possess.

In a recent case, 5-year-old Brian Prue was pedaling his bicycle along a street near his Orem home when he was struck by a speeding motorist. He suffered two broken bones in one leg, a concussion and assorted scrapes and bruises.

The boy spent four days in the hospital, spent three months in a cast and incurred $7,000 in medical expenses.

However, a State Farm Insurance claims adjuster said Brian was negligent because he wasn't looking where he was going, according to the boy's mother, Cherie Prue. The company offered to pay the medical bills, but nothing else.

She contacted Bruce Davis, one of about 50 private insurance adjusters in Utah. Like many of them, he once worked for insurance companies but now represents individuals in settling claims against insurance companies.

Davis negotiated a settlement with State Farm that not only paid Brian's medical bills but also paid Brian $14,600 for the negligence of the motorist.

"He knew exactly how the insurance companies operated and he settled it without going through all the mess of hiring a lawyer and paying court costs," Prue said.

The Utah Trial Lawyers Association and the Utah State Bar, however, have filed a lawsuit against certain public adjusters who they say practice law without a license.

Britain admits to secret talks with IRA

The Associated Press

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — The British government's reluctant admission that it has secretly communicated with the IRA has cast a shadow over months of peacemaking efforts for Northern Ireland.

An influential Protestant leader demanded British Prime Minister John Major's resignation. Sinn Fein, the IRA's political ally, said the contacts were more substantial than the British government was willing to admit.

The secrecy surrounding the contacts underscores Britain's fear that publicity could blow apart the peace efforts.

Major is due to meet his Irish counterpart, Albert Reynolds, next month in Dublin, where they hope to reach agreement on a way toward peace.

But Northern Ireland's Protestant

majority already suspects Britain may try to cut a deal with the Catholic-based IRA. British agents seized a cache of arms last week intended for Protestant paramilitaries, and Protestant politicians said the seizure showed the paramilitaries were preparing for war.

The IRA wants Northern Ireland to unite with the Irish Republic, which is predominantly Catholic. The province's Protestant community supports continued British rule, fearing it will lose political clout in a mainly Catholic nation.

At least 3,100 people have been killed in 23 years of sectarian violence surrounding British rule in Northern Ireland.

After weeks of denials, the British government admitted Sunday it has had secret communications with the IRA in hopes of persuading the outlawed group to end its violent campaign against the British.

The disclosure was made by Sir Patrick Mayhew, Britain's leading official for Northern Ireland, who said Britain had long used intermediaries as contacts with Sinn Fein.

The government was forced to concede the existence of the contacts after The Observer newspaper published on Sunday the text of Mayhew's instructions to an emissary who met Sinn Fein deputy leader Martin McGuinness in March.

"That channel of communication has been the means of communicating in each direction messages, the value of the chain being that it is confidential," said Mayhew. He denied any negotiations took place and promised to publish full details of British messages to the IRA.

The Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of the Protestant-based Democratic Unionist Party, scoffed at the British government's explanation that it had responded to an IRA request for "advice" on how to end its 23-year violent campaign.

"Nobody in Northern Ireland believes that the IRA went with a white flag and said: 'Please advise us how we can get out of our trouble,'" Paisley said, laughing bitterly.

He and other Protestant leaders demanded that Mayhew and Major resign for their "bare-faced lying" and that contact with IRA supporters cease.

Denise desired Derek for dating designs --what a dilemma! Denise didn't know what to do. Dancing in December was definitely deemed delightful, but discovering a date could be disastrous. Denise dreamed of dancing with Derek and decided dialing Datelines could be a dandy deal to deliver the deed.

Darling Derek sat down dazed as he discovered the Datelines dedication. Derek decided Denise deserved an in depth demonstration of dancing and could even begin to desire disclosing deliberate dating do's and don't's. Decidedly, Denise and Derek dashed to D.C. to defiantly decree their destiny in that dazzling, divine dwelling.

BOSNIAN SUCCESS: A Bosnian soldier celebrates as U. N. peacekeepers patrol near the entrance to a central Bosnian town earlier this month. The European Community wants Bosnian leaders to restart peace talks.

European Community wants to restart Bosnian peace talks

The Associated Press

GENEVA — The European Community is hoping to lure the leaders of Bosnia's warring factions back to the negotiating table with an offer to lift sanctions on Yugoslavia, the troubled region's powerbroker.

But prospects for achieving peace soon appear dim.

The talks broke down in September when Bosnia's Serbs and Muslim-led government disagreed over terms for dividing up Bosnia. Fighting since then has mainly involved Bosnian Croats and government troops.

The 12 European Community foreign ministers will meet Monday with the leaders of each faction in a bid to restart the talks. Their new offer involves phasing out international sanctions against Serb-led Yugoslavia if Belgrade pressures the Bosnian Serbs into giving more land to the Muslims.

The Bosnian Serbs, who have gotten crucial backing from Yugoslavia during the 19-month war, hold about 70 percent of Bosnia. Bosnian Croats, who have gotten help from Croatia, hold much of the rest.

Government-held Sarajevo has been under Serb siege most of the war. On Sunday, at least five people were killed when Serb gunners fired a mortar shell into the city center.

Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic, who is under pressure from hard-line Serbs not to yield an inch, has ruled out any further territorial concessions.

"We will not give up a centimeter of our territory," Karadzic said on Radio Belgrade before leaving the Yugoslav capital for Monday's talks. "It's going to be a grand theater in Geneva."

In Sarajevo, Izetbegovic said the international sanctions on Serbia, the dominant republic in Yugoslavia, should be tightened if there are no territorial concessions from Bosnian Serbs.

He also threatened to call for sanctions against Croatia unless President Franjo Tudjman of Croatia agrees to stop intervening in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic is to join Tudjman, Karadzic, Izetbegovic and Bosnian Croat leader Mate Boban for the Geneva talks.

Milosevic's country is crumbling under the U.N. sanctions, imposed in May 1992 to punish Serbia for fomenting the Bosnian war. He is considered the key to ending the conflict, in which more than 200,000 people have died.

He has not yet said publicly whether he would exert pressure on the Bosnian Serbs to give up more land, but his close aides have rejected the idea.

Under the earlier plan to divide Bosnia into Serb, Croat and Muslim-led states, Muslims would have gotten about 31 percent of the country.

Utah youths say 'True Love Waits' for marriage

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Hundreds of Utah and Colorado youths responded enthusiastically to a "True Love Waits" campaign unveiled during the Assemblies of God Rocky Mountain Youth Conference.

"We're saying virginity is not a dirty word, and that the ultimate safe sex is one man for one woman for one lifetime," said Ray Smith, district youth director for the Assemblies of God.

Many of the 800 or so youths from Utah and Colorado who attended the conference Saturday will be signing pledge cards that affirm their commitment to abstain from premarital sex.

The cards will be taken to Washington D.C. in June 1994 and "planted" around the Washington Monument along with hundreds of thousands of other cards from around the nation.

The pledge came from the Southern Baptist Convention's yearlong "True Love Waits" campaign, which started nationwide last spring.

The project challenges teenagers and young, unmarried adults to say that "abstinence is OK," says Richard Ross, youth ministry consultant with the Southern Baptists' Sunday School Board.

The Assemblies of God initiated the program at this weekend's youth conference.

About 10,000 youths in Utah and Colorado could participate in the program through local Assemblies of God churches, Smith said.

"If we make the commitment now, we will stick with it the rest of our lives," says 14-year-old Vanessa Hubbard of Mountain Green.

Her friend, 13-year-old Amanda Young of Syracuse, agrees.

"I had already planned on saving myself, but this is a way of showing it. It's a way to be a witness for my friends," she said.

The campaign has expanded to other denominations, including the Assemblies of God, Pentecostal Church of God, Campus Crusade for Christ, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Youth for Christ.
